The Benefits of Membership

While most educators may never have to file a grievance, or seek legal counsel from a CTA attorney, they do take advantage of many other benefits CTA has to offer, from auto insurance to the Well-Baby Program.

The evolution of these benefits began in the years following World War II when the school population grew with the baby boom and CTA membership began to grow with the influx of returning GIs, who began to demand more from their profession.

CTA met that demand by establishing a committee in 1950 to study and make recommendations on insurance programs. That same year, CTA established its first credit union, and added auto, liability and homeowners insurance within five years. Travel-loving educators were thrilled to find valuable travel discounts and services through both CTA and NEA. Today, CTA's Member Benefits Department oversees popular programs including investment education, insurance programs, and financial services. Members can also obtain a variety of discounts from CTA and NEA Member Benefits on home appliances, movie tickets, amusement parks and cell phone service.

CTA's member benefits: just one more way CTA has made a difference in members' lives.
